By Julie Corwin

The bird shows this year at AFA had an amazing variety of species and mutations, including several rare species. The exciting number of 318 entries provided a beautiful backdrop of sounds, a splash of color and a wonderful education to those who attended.

Shows were hosted by Lory League and Co-Sponsored by Triangle Bird Club of Beaumont, Texas and Kaytree. The local supporting club, Mid Atlantic Cooperative of Breeders & Exhibitors whose members include Josh Maple, Leslie Huegerich, and Wendy Edwards did a fantastic job of reaching out to exhibitors for all the different divisions, providing a wonderful team of volunteers, show benches, secretary books and more.

This year’s shows boasted 4 different divisions: ALBS—African Love Bird Society, NAPS—North American Parrot Society, NCS—National Cockatiel Society, and SPBE—Society of Parrot Breeders & Exhibitors. There was also a Junior Class for kids age 16 and under to enter their birds for free.

Judges did an amazing job of educating the gallery and pointing out specifics for the exhibitors. Exhibition judges are trained to look for the best representation of the species on the bench. They also help to educate the attendees of the shows. The exhibitions hosted by Lory League at the AFA conventions follow the mission statement and purpose of AFA, and bring the love of birds, and the best conditioned birds to the shows. They also give novice exhibitors a chance to have their birds compared and evaluated by the judge.

The Judges came from far and wide this year, Jeff Robinson from Texas judged the Junior Class and the NCS Division (Cockatiels). Jim Heffernan from Michigan judged the NAPS Division (Parrots). Joe DeLuca from Ohio judged the SPBE Division (Parrots), and Mike Miller from North Carolina judged the ALBS Division (Lovebirds). I am proud to say that each one of our judges is a current member of AFA. Exhibitors and attendees came from all across the country.

Many of the exhibitors are also members of AFA and eligible for the AFA show awards.

The number of entries into the show this year was exciting, but also because Raleigh, NC is in the middle of show country. The Junior Class had 6 entries with Exhibitors ages ranging from ages 10 to 16. The ALBS Lovebird Division had 87 entries, NAPS Parrot Division had 92 entries, NCS Cockatiel Division had 84 entries and SPBE Parrot Division had 87 entries. There were several rare species entered in the show this year including a Blue Throated Macaw, Rose Crown Conure, Hoffman’s Conure, Yellow Face Cockatiel and a Slaty Black Face Lovebird. The color mutations of the different divisions created a fascinating backdrop on the show bench.

Colorful Rosettes, Medallions, Plaques and more were awarded to the top exhibitors.
